Terrorism
Counter insurgency & the role of intelligence services

Terror has become part of our daily lives. The national attacks in Brussels on March 22nd 2016 prove that threats can manifest themselves in acts of horror. Despite the disastrous events, our moral remains intact. Simultaneously, we have to deal with the reality that security is, more than ever, risk induced.

How do intelligence services deal with our contemporary security landscape? How do they deal with threats of terror? What are their perspectives for the future? These questions will be dealt with during our BISC conference "Terrorism – Counter insurgency and the role of intelligence services".
