Table of contents

CHAPTER 1
Painting the postfoundational picture: Participation, engagement and collaboration as a new foundation for newsmaking

Jana Declercq, Felicitas Macgilchrist, Astrid Vandendaele and Geert Jacobs

CHAPTER 2
Online headline testing at a Belgian broadsheet:
A postfoundational perspective on how news professionals ‘sell’ content

Astrid Vandendaele, Jana Declercq, Geert Jacobs and Sofie Verkest

CHAPTER 3
“It is, perhaps more than ever before, a matter of participation”:
Ontological tension and boundary work in a free trade blog

Thomas Jacobs and Geert Jacobs

CHAPTER 4
“If it wasn’t absolutely true, it couldn’t be published”:
On boundaries in collaborative journalism

Sofie Verkest and Geert Jacobs

CHAPTER 5
“Somehow I’m Always Writing”: On the meaning of transdisciplinary analyses of text production in media change

Daniel Perrin

CHAPTER 6
Journalism now: Central and marginal aspects of news craft

Colleen Cotter and William J. Drummond
CHAPTER 7
Journalists’ use of social media: A paradigmatic shift towards restoring audience trust through wide-ranging engagement
Lauri Haapanen

CHAPTER 8
Epilogue: Newsmaking on participatory sociotechnical foundations
Felicitas Macgilchrist, Jana Declercq, Astrid Vandendaele and Geert Jacobs

Index